RoHS Directive (2002/95/EC) – Supplier Response

Dear Sir / Madam

European Union legislation 2002/95/EC (RoHS) that goes in effect July 1, 2006 requires that manufacturers of electrical and electronic equipment choose product materials with more focus on our environment and thus support recycling legislation such as WEEE in the EU. The RoHS Directive will ban the placing on the EU market electrical equipment that exceeds a maximum concentration per HOMOGENEOUS substance:

- 1000 ppm or 0,1 wt % for Lead
- 100 ppm or 0,01 wt % for Cadmium
- 1000 ppm or 0,1 wt % for Mercury
- 1000 ppm or 0,1 wt % Hexavalent Chromium
- 1000 ppm or 0,1 wt % for PBB and PBDE flame retardants

We herewith confirm that all of the products that we sell comply with the above legislation.

Yours faithfully

CMB Schankanlagen GmbH
